Report on Expert Group Macrophytes

2015 was devoted entirely to the continued production of a book on Danube macrophytes, based on the earlier project of surveying the contiguous length of the Danube River corridor, as well as some other water bodies in the Danube Basin. The completed manuscript is being considered by a scientific publisher at present and the editors expect to be in a final phase soon, or will look for other opportunities, more closely related to internet-based publication.

For the next year a convention and final Micro-Symposium involving the teams of authors and focused on so far unpublished data is planned. An invitation is pending to have this event organised in Lednice (Czech Republic).
